

Manage your plan

Working with your expert TPA team

Your Small Business Program plan from Delta Dental is backed by a team of experts at CoPower, a third party administrator (TPA) who specializes in administering plans just like yours. Having a TPA might be confusing at first, so here are answers to some common questions about managing your plan and working with a TPA:

1. What is a TPA?

A TPA is a business who specialized in the administration of group benefits. Helping you manage your plan is their primary focus. They're like a whole team of account managers. They'll handle all of your billing, eligibility and enrollment needs, but you can also come to us for benefits and claim support.

2. Why do I have a TPA?

The Small Business Program groups you with other clients of similar size to provide you the best service. Your TPA team of administrative experts gives you dedicated account support and service designed specifically for clients like you.

3. How does Delta Dental support me?

We help support your enrollees with resources to answer their benefits and wellness questions. Inquiries about benefits or claims can be directed to one of our dedicated customer service lines.

4. How does this help me?

This model helps you focus more on your business, and less on your benefits. Your team at CoPower will work with you and your broker every step of the way and can answer your plan management questions — from enrollment and billing to renewal information. They also offer a complete toolbox of online services to help you manage your plan on your own time.
